

School of Business Day

This year's annual School of Business Day was a success thanks to all the students and parents who came to campus to explore the opportunities at UIndy. The highlights of the day included a panel discussion with current students and alumni, where secrets to success in UIndy's School of Business were revealed. Attendees also had the chance to compete against each other in an interactive game during a class experience with Dr.

Chris Harris, which was a great example of the hands-on nature of a UIndy education. The day offered a great opportunity for prospective students and parents to get to know faculty and current students over lunch, as professors talked with each table one-on-one about navigating the opportunities and advantages of attending UIndy. Thank you to everyone who came out to the 2015 UIndy School of Business Day. We look forward to seeing the students back on campus in the fall!

BizFued Gameshow

UIndy's Student Business Leadership Academy (SBLA) recently hosted BizFeud, a gameshow where business students and business professors competed against one another. BizFeud was set up similar to the popular gameshow Family Feud, where teams face off and try to guess the most popular answers to survey questions. Business-related questions were the focus of the game, which pitted the 'CEOs' against the 'Professors' and the 'Jetsons' against the 'Tres Amigos.' Teams competed for a chance to advance to the championship round, and in the end, the CEOs pulled through with a win. Each participant and audience member walked away with increased knowledge of the business world, all from a fun game planned by the SBLA. Thanks to all those who participated and made this event a success!

UIndy Alumni Profile

Seve Duncan is in his 5th year of the BS/MBA program at UIndy. He graduated with an undergraduate degree in Accounting and landed an internship with One America, where his job was to help the Vice President make stock investments for the entire company. With the knowledge and skills gained from his One America internship, as well as the exposure to employers at UIndy's Accounting Interview Day, Seve recently accepted a Federal Audit job at one of the world's largest accounting firms, KPMG. Seve shared some advice for students. "First, be proactive. Network and get as much internship experience as possible. Understand early how the hiring process works. UIndy and the School of Business prepared me for the interview process. Second, take advantage of the small classes. Get to know your professors and peers well. I have found that while technical skills are important, communication skills and connections are imperative."

Greyhound Volleyball Success

UIndy's volleyball team enjoyed continued success this year, as they made it to the NCAA Division II Championships for the eighth straight year. The team went 19-0 for their overall record (15-3 GLVC) and earned the No. 5 seed in the Midwest Region. They advanced all the way to the GLVC Tournament semifinal, where they fell to No. 4 seed Rockhurst. We are proud to support our Greyhounds!

Starbucks Comes to Campus

A college student with coffee is a happy student, and UIndy is always looking for ways to make every student's experience better! That's why this semester the University of Indianapolis was proud to announce The Perk coffee shop, located in Schwitzer Student Center, will be serving Starbucks' coffee, tea, and other specialty drinks. The best part is that students can use their meal swipes. Now you can treat yourself to a favorite Starbucks' drink without breaking the bank!
