

Internship Highlight: FBI

Imagine spending your summer working for a top government agency. Senior Accounting major Emily Gipson spent her summer doing just that, immersed in the interworking of the FBI as a Forensic Accountant Intern. Working alongside forensic accountants and agents, Emily analyzed bank records and financial statements, drafted subpoenas for additional evidence and developed timelines of case activity. This opportunity allowed Emily to network with professionals in the industry as she added a unique job experience to her resume.

UIndy students are strongly encouraged to participate in internships throughout their collegiate career. UIndy School of Business faculty and staff assist students in obtaining internships that are challenging, rewarding, and fulfilling. In Emily's case, "My professors at UIndy not only taught me about business, but they gave me confidence in my abilities and helped me make connections in the business world."

A Conrad Exclusive

UIndy School of Business students had a unique opportunity to privately tour one of Indianapolis's most prestigious hotels, the Conrad Indianapolis. The students met with Jennifer Hudon-Terrell, the Talent Engagement and Development Manager for the Conrad Hotel, and other team members from the hotel's marketing and event management divisions. Not only did students have the opportunity to tour the magnificent features of the hotel including banquet halls, artwork, the spa, and even a luxury suite overlooking downtown, but the main highlight of the tour focused on a behind-the-scenes look into careers in the hospitality industry. Students learned how customer service, dedication, and teamwork are essential elements for Conrad employees and for business professionals in general. This exclusive Conrad tour was an excellent way for UIndy students to network with professionals and gain knowledge within event management.

Winning Streak Lives On

What better way to spend a fall Saturday afternoon than cheering on your football team? That's what hundreds of UIndy students, families, and community members do from September to November, and for the past three years, fans have had even more to celebrate: three GLVC Championship wins! That's right, your very own UIndy Greyhound football team clinched three Championship titles in the Great Lakes Valley Conference. Since 2012, the Greyhounds have had a perfect 22-0 record for conference games.

The UIndy School of Business is proud of all the student athletes who make winning a priority on the field, as well as within the classroom. Football is just one of the many UIndy sports that consistently brings excitement, success, and comradery to campus. Congratulations to the football team on such a successful three years...we look forward to cheering you on in 2015!

Education for Service

Education for Service is the university mantra, and Dr. Jodie Ferise, a professor in the UIndy School of Business, embodies this inside and outside the classroom. Dr. Ferise founded the Precious Words Africa project, through which she has raised money to build a school in Ghana, Africa. Many UIndy students have assisted with the fundraising efforts, and some have actually traveled to Ghana with the project. What started as one small idea has now become an entire organization built by Dr. Ferise and UIndy students. While business classes teach the basics behind building a foundation or organization, very few universities can say their professors and students have had hands on experience building one from scratch.

The UIndy School of Business is proud that Dr. Ferise and her students are helping expand education around the globe.
